

Our mission is to create and deliver integrated solutions to profound social problems. Since 1991, The Salvation Army Harbor House has developed and operated housing, provided chemical dependency treatment, workforce solutions, and other supportive services to single parent families who are homeless.

Our purpose is to make a positive and lasting impact on families in recovery, living unsheltered, and in poverty. Harbor House Program engages families and communities to build assets to achieve greater independence.

About Harbor House

Located in San Francisco, California, Salvation Army's Harbor House Transitional Housing is a state licensed chemical dependency program for single parent (mothers or fathers) homeless families seeking a self sustaining life.

Harbor House provides an integrated, supportive environment that encourages confidence and independence through recovery, workforce solutions, education, skills enhancement; individual and family counseling. Together families and staff engage change through a professional therapeutic process. We also, offer employment guidance, job preparation, parenting classes, facilitation of process groups, weekly house meetings, along with family oriented activities.

Through our partnerships and joint ventures, Harbor House is able to provide a safety net in the midst of economic uncertainty.

We now have a veterans program at Harbor House focused on OIF and OEF; we are working with newly returned men and women with children, who have served our country.

Harbor House provides a unique recovery environment:

Moral Courage, Gratitude, Respect, Honor, Responsibility, Open Channel, Integrity, Support, Empathy, Completion, Pride, Effort, Initiative, Trust and Spirituality

- Training to enhance personal, moral, and social responsibility.
- A range of cognitive, behavioral, and psychosocial skills and to develop educational, career, and interpersonal skills to promote personal and social productivity.
- To create value-based opportunities which maximize successful pro-social community integration.
- To improve the quality of life.

Past Harbor House Participant Testimonials:

"Harbor House has been a huge stepping stone in my life. Not only has it given me the opportunity to get my life back together, but it has also helped me to get back into the work field, as a receptionist for Harbor House. For the past four years my life has done nothing but get better and I owe a great deal of that to Harbor House."

Michelle M

"Harbor House has taught me how to be a productive member in today's society. It has also taught me how to ask for help when I need it, and it has taught me how to be a good mother to my daughter, and how to live my life again."

Michelle B

"As a vet it is good to know that a place like Harbor House does exist. Also I am very humbled and very grateful that my daughter has a very safe environment to live. I would recommend Harbor House to all vets who are looking for a safe environment for themselves and their children. Harbor House allows you to build a good recovery based foundation, financial foundation and I felt very loved and supported by all staff."
